

July 2014 visit

My tuning fork order finally came in and I had a lot of forks to paint so that I could ship out orders. I was standing on the back porch painting each fork with the correct color. I began to think of how happy the people are going to be when I finally get their order out to them. I was happy because I didn't have to worry how long it was going to take fill these orders.

As I placed the tuning fork back on the box I designed to cradle the newly-painted ones, I noticed something further out in the yard. I have a full-size Gate of Grace set up not too far from the back porch. I have some pretty decent sized stones that I use for this Gate because the squirrels tend to steal the smaller ones. As I looked at the gate in the yard, I noticed there was movement in the center of it. It wasn't as if there was an object moving but more like seeing heat waves rising and fluttering back and forth. I figured it had to be one of two things: either the temperature was causing this fluctuation or angels were afoot. It didn't take me long to see Angels were in fact of foot. The center of the Gate of Grace in the yard was being filled with a bright white light. Knowing this was a precursor to a visit, I put down my work, stepped off the back porch and headed to the gate. By the time I got there, Michael had pretty-well materialized. "Well," I said, "I was wondering when you were going to pay me a visit. It has been awhile since the event and I have a lot of questions."

Michael... There is a reason I did not visit you sooner after the conference. Yet I will start with a blessing to all of those who stood in the formation and sang the Seven Names of God. Each that stood in the formation contributed their vibrations to generate the harmonics needed for the number attending. Those standing in formation were less in number than what was needed to raise the consciousness and awareness of the world. Yet for those standing with you, theirs were raised.

That's good to hear, so how much was their consciousness and awareness raised?

Michael... We will speak of that in a while. For now, let us speak of the flow of the vibrational frequencies needed to bring about the full harmonics. Dave and all those that helped did well with the Gatherings to usher in the new gathered Masters. Larry's teaching of the Gate of Grace and how to set it up has been needed for sometime. There has been little talk of the Gate of Grace and what an important role it plays in healing and angelic communication, so he did well. You could not have found a more perfect person to speak of the principles of creation of than Paula. Her teachings set the tone and the vibrations needed in order to create that which you did in the grand formation. Adil and Baljit worked together to teach the sacred geometrical patterns, introducing them to the Masters for the very first time. Baljit's teachings were very clear and understandable by all. Adil's teachings were quite profound they opened up the mind to higher concepts. When the Masters at the conference took time to join in with those from the Unify group at the specified time, there was a coming together in oneness. Adil was correct when he told you that those at the conference joined in the harmony with over 1 million people around the world. Blessings to those with you and those who stood around the world.

The teaching of the Wholeness Blessing will make the way for more to receive the Blessing and help others to reach a state of wholeness. It would be wise that you should offer more Wholeness Blessing Facilitators Trainings.

I would be happy to do that but people just don't seem to be interested in taking the training just now. The training after the Conference went well even though it was a small one. The good news is there now five new Wholeness Blessing Facilitators from the training.

Michael... This may be as you see it now, yet there are others that would want to teach the Fountain of Life Class as you do. You have other classes you haven't taught in years. There are those ready to learn what you teach. You may think these are all old teachings and many have already attended these classes. Yet you forget it has been several years since you taught your classes. Since that time you have learned many more things that people should know. This new Introduction to Healing class would go far beyond what you were able to teach in the beginning. Your Accutuning class is one of the most powerful healing tools I have given you. As soon as Ole finishes the Metatron and Shekinah tiles, you can start teaching the Divine Masculine and Feminine Creation class. You can empower others by teaching a Heal the Seven Wounds class should you wish to do so.

Now that's a class I would like to teach. As far as the Divine Feminine aspect goes, there is no one that teaches the Divine Feminine class better than Robbie. I am sure she knows a lot but I didn't teach her everything I know. Those that have taken her class will be quite surprised at how what I teach will blend with what came before. It will take them to another level.

Regarding Ole getting the images of the Shekinah and the Metatron onto tiles, I'll see about doing a class when those are done. Oh by the way, I want to talk to you about some coasters that Ole made with your image on them. It seems that those coasters have some very interesting properties. We made them just because we thought they would be cool to have. However, people who put the coasters on different parts of their body found that they relieve pain and others experienced some healing things going on for them. I know from past experiences your energy or vibration supports people in healing.

Michael... This is true. Yet there is more to these than you realize. Because my image is on the coaster along with the star octahedron, they hold a very high frequency that assists in healing. You may think they only serve to keep a ring off your table, yet what you are doing is raising the frequency of your drink to a healing liquid. That liquid will support and fortify one's own healing process.

Okay, now you've got me curious. Given the images on the coasters, I have to ask about the medallions that I had Ole make for the conference. I felt drawn to place the medallions in the formation. When I got home from the conference, I took the box that all the coins were in and sent it on a long skinny table inside my front door. What I've noticed is each time I walk in, I feel as if the hair on my arms are about to stand up. There is a very high frequency coming from those medallions. So tell me, what did I do?

Michael... There is much to be said about the properties of the medallions. First of all, you have to realize what is on them. On one side there is the image of me inside the star octahedron and on the other, there is the formation that we used this year. During the conference you placed those medallions within the formation. The work that you did in raising the levels of consciousness and awareness was infused within those medallions. Let me speak to you of what will take place when someone holds one. Those that stood with you at the conference created and absorbed the frequencies and the harmonics of awareness and consciousness. When one returns to the everyday world, those harmonics will begin to lessen.

If those that were at the conference were to hold one of the medallions, they would reabsorb the frequency and the harmonics you created at the conference. It is done quite simply by holding the medallion in your hand, clearing your mind and taking three deep breaths. It is done. That which you created at the conference formation is once again infused into each person.

For those who were not there, they can do the same process and they will begin to absorb the harmonics and the frequency given at the conference.

It's kind of cool that it doesn't make any difference whether or not you were at the conference. You can still benefit from the frequencies and the harmonics that the medallions hold.

Michael... This is so. Yet there were other things that were placed in the formation. These things were charged with Divine energy. It makes no difference whether they were the shawls, blankets or the coasters. They all absorbed the Divine frequency. Yet I tell you truly, the blankets and shawls carry a healing frequency of their own.

I'm glad you brought up the blankets and shawls because I had some people ask me about them. I told people that they could use them as either a blanket to cover up with or they can put it on their massage tables to assist people when they're doing a healing session. The question that I was asked was how do they compare to the crystal coverings that people put on their healing tables? You know, the ones with the long tubes of crystals.

Michael... The crystal-filled table coverings are powerful because they carry shards of crushed crystals. Because there is so much of the crystal sewed into the healing table blanket, people absorbed those frequencies and they are assisted in their healing process. However, you have to realize that the crystals have a chaotic frequency because the shards are not all running in the same direction. When you do this, the energies of the crystals are scattered. With the blankets that Ole and April make, there is no chaos in the crystals as they are all aligned in their frequency. Understand there are two things happening with the blankets and the shawls. Each holds a Gate of Grace which is used for healing and angelic communication. You have chosen to use Laminar crystal tubing, which outlines the parameters of the star octahedron. Because laminar crystals all run in the same direction, the harmonic frequency is structured and more powerful in the healing flow. It was wise to make these blankets for healing.

That makes perfect sense to me. We have also put together some pocket stones with the Seven Names of God upon them and also the Angels of the Seven Churches. That way people can pick one of the stones then carry that particular Angel's energy around with them throughout the day. That would also work the same way with the Names of God on the pocket stones.

Michael... You have done much to raise the vibrations of the masters, yet do not forget the Names of God process that was given to be done with the tuning forks and sacred oils.

Let us speak more of the conference. The Divine Blessings that you give each year set the vibrational harmonics to a very high level before entering the grand formation. Your daughter's touch has become as powerful as yours. She has grown much over the years. The men that you chose to represent the Divine Masculine in the Gate of Grace was fitting along with the women you chose as bowl carriers to hold the vibrations of the Divine Feminine. Their contribution of the vibrational frequency allowed the generator to move. There was a problem however, with the way you had the Seven Names of God sung. You misunderstood my directions. It is not as you would say, a bad thing. It was just not the most effective way to set the vibrations. You will have an opportunity to correct that at the next conference to maximize the vibrational harmonics.

I have to agree with you that Gabby is coming into her own. She has been a great help to me at the conference and she's growing into quite a magnificent little woman. You know it would be nice if she could take over for me someday and do the teachings. However I don't want it to be a 'have to' for her. I know she has her own dreams and visions as to what she wants to do with her life. I told her I will support her in whatever it is that she wants to do. Also, I want her to know that what I teach is available to her down the road if she wants to start teaching herself. But then again it's like I say, this path I have chosen to take with you angels has not always been an easy one. Sometimes it feels like a very heavy burden but that's on me I chose it. I would not look down on anyone that had the good sense not to take the same path I've chosen.

Michael... This is true. Much have you given up to do the work you do. Blessed are you for you to have not come to be a witness. Many are your bricks that you have made. Many are those that have found a loving God from the work you do. Now you are working with Adil and Baljit to bring the conference to British Columbia, Canada.

Yes that's something we've been working on and exploring the possibilities. I think it would be fun to do a conference up there as well as here in the states. However it's still in the planning stage and nothing has been set. I sure I will be talking to them again soon. Now as far as the conference goes here in the states, I've been thinking about doing it in the eastern US. I have Don and Lee looking for a place in Georgia where we might hold it. However nothing has been set in stone yet.

Oh, another thing, there were some people that were telling me that we would probably have greater attendance if it wasn't the full four days. They were telling me that a three-day conference would probably serve everyone better. I don't know how that would work, given I barely had enough time to get things done for this conference. There was so much going on that when we did get to arranging the formation, we didn't have everyone standing in the formation until late. Last year the formation arrangements were done the day before, so when we got into the formation early, we were finished early in the evening. There's just a whole lot to take into consideration. When we do the conference in Canada I may try a three-day and see how it works. It's just a thought.

Michael... Changing the number of days would do little to serve the people or the conference. As you set with all that needs to be done before the grand formation on the last day, you would more than likely find your self running out of time.

You're probably right, but I'm still going to see if maybe in Canada I could get a three-day to work. But no matter how you look at it, I'm going to need a partner to work with me on this. The problem is I'll need to find someone who knows the teachings inside and out. I thought about hiring someone because it was suggested to me, but I don't see how that would work. Goes back to I need them to know what I know so they don't have to ask me all the time. I will have to see what happens between now and then.

Michael... There will be much to do between now and the next conference. Remember it is time for you to start teaching again. There is much the masters can learn from you so do not wait until the conference to teach.

Okay, I'll start figuring out what classes I'm going to be offering and when. I'll get something out in the newsletter and then people can decide what they would like me to teach.

Michael... Blessed again are the masters that stood with you in the grand formation for they have made a larger difference in this world than they know. They have made a difference in their own lives that they will begin to see between now and the Festival of Lights. Our time is done now. I will speak to you again soon.

It seemed a little strange to me to watch Michael fold back into the light that surrounded him from the gate in the backyard. I guess I just got used to seeing him do that in the office. I watched as the light folded in on itself and Michael was gone.

As I walked back up to the house, I couldn't help thinking how in the world I was going to get this visit written up with all the things I had to do. I guess I'll start doing my juggling and getting done whatever it is I can get done.
